

What Our Diversity
Champions Have to Say

Steven Younger, LANL's First Diversity Champion, speaking...

Q: You have called terrorism a diversity problem. Why?

A: "How do you understand the terrorists better? Well, you've got to understand alternate perspectives. And that comes to, I guess, the reason why I am here today, and that is diversity. We've got to understand how different people think."

And I'm not talking just about Middle Eastern people. I'm talking about how different cultures think. What are the different values systems that motivate people."
